2. Brief History of Irish Whiskey

- Earliest written reference to whiskey distilling dates back 1324. From the monks who introduced distilling to Ireland to the distilleries of the present day, we've been making whiskey in Ireland for longer than any other country.
- In the 19th century, Ireland was the global powerhouse of whiskey production, with over 100 Irish whiskey distilleries, supplying the world's most popular whiskey.
- Then the 20th century happened. Between world wars, trade wars and prohibition, everything fell apart. By the 1980s, there were just two distilleries left making Irish whiskey. But Irish people know a little bit about adversity! We don't give up easily. We knew it was only a matter of time before the world rediscovered Irish whiskey.
- We were right. Global sales of Irish whiskey have more than doubled in the past decade; and they're showing no sign of stopping.
- Global demand has inspired an exciting new wave of local production. From two distilleries in the 1980's, to four in 2010, we started 2020 with 31.

3. Powerscourt Distillery & Visitor Centre Location

- Powerscourt Distillery is located on one of Ireland's most visited Fine House & Garden Estates. Situated close to the popular village of Enniskerry, it is within a 30-minute drive of Dublin city centre.
- Set in some 1,000 acres of grounds including 47 acres of landscaped gardens, Powerscourt Estate has been voted No.3 in The World's Top 10 Gardens (National Geographic).
- The Estate sits above a lake of pure Wicklow water fed by a surrounding aquifer. It boasts one of the highest waterfalls in Ireland, offers two championship golf courses and is home to an internationally acclaimed 5-star hotel & spa resort. Powerscourt Estate welcomes some 500,000+ visitors annually.
- The distillery is positioned approximately 400m from the House and within good view of the main car park. The development has involved the restoration of a granite-faced Mill House (dating to circa 1760s) and extension to the rear over 3 floors covering 20,000 sq ft. An adjoining 10,000 sq ft bonded warehouse completes the Estate-located footprint.
- About 500k visitors a year.

3.2 History of the Estate

- The history of the Powerscourt Estate can be traced back to the 9th century to a territory that stretches across fertile plains and rugged mountainous land.
- Known in native Gaelic tongue as “FeraCulann” or Fercullen, it is located in the foothold of the Wicklow mountains, close to Dublin. Ownership has been claimed by many over the centuries, from the native Clans of O’Toole and O’Byrne, to the Norman house of LePoer (who built a castle here and from whom the Estate takes its name.)
- In the early 17th century Powerscourt was gifted by Queen Elizabeth I to a favoured army general, Sir Richard Wingfield. The nearby village of Enniskerry came into being as a part of the Powerscourt Estate to house tenants who worked the land in the area.
- Modern history/ purchased by Slazenger in 1961 was to be opened in 1970s before a fire ravaged building set idle until 1996 when renovated and reopened.

4. Distillery Over-View

- Powerscourt Distillery has been custom-designed and commissioned by the world famous Forsyths company from Scotland (Rothes, Speyside).
- At Powerscourt Distillery we are producing both Malt and Pot Still whiskey which we age in our on site maturation which holds around at capacity close to 5000 barrels.
- Forsyths have an outstanding reputation for whiskey distillery equipment and rank well above rivals from UK, Italy, Germany and Hungary. They have received worldwide recognition for their contribution to some of the most famous distilleries from Scotland (Ardbeg, Glenmorangie, Glenlivet, Ailsa Bay, Macallan, Glenfarclas), Ireland (Kilbeggan, Middleton, Bushmills), Belgium (Owl), Taiwan (Kavalan), Thailand (Thai Bev), Japan (Suntory) and USA (Alltech, Woodford Reserve, Balcones).
- With room for additional expansion Powerscourt Distillery currently comprises a 2.5 tonne mash tun, 6 x fermenters and 3 x copper pot stills. It is capable of producing up to 1 million LPA per annum (roughly 3M bottles) of Single Malt and Pot Still Irish whiskey.

5. Plant and Equipment

6. Master Distiller – Noel Sweeney

- For almost 30 years Noel Sweeney was the Master Distiller and Chief Blender at Cooley Irish Whiskey Distillery in Louth, Ireland. Over the course of that time he was directly responsible for the production and release of many International Award-winning Irish Whiskeys, including; the Greenore and Kilbeggan range of Single Grain Irish Whiskeys and the Tyrconnell and Connemara Single Malts.
- Noel joined Powerscourt Distillery in January 2017, his first responsibility being to work closely with Forsyths in the design and development of the new plant. He was inducted into the Whisky Magazine Hall of Fame in March 2017 and is one of only two Irish distillers ever to have been recognised in this way.
- In October 2018 Powerscourt Distillery launched its opening whiskeys under the brand name “Fercullen”. Derived from the ancient Gaelic name given to the surrounding lands of North Wicklow (FeraCualan) it translates to “Men of the Wicklow Hills”.
- The 4 initial releases were developed using stock that Noel had formerly distilled and comprise an 18-year old Single Malt (43% abv) a 14-year-old Single Malt (46% abv), a 10-year-old Single Grain (40% abv) and a Premium Blend Irish whiskey (40% abv).

7. Visitor Centre

- Formerly the hub of all activity on the estate we have restored the old mill house to incorporate part of our visitor experience.
- The building dates back to the 18th century and the mill turbine from 1910 can be still seen in its original position in the mill house.
- The bell which has been on the estate since 1723 is adorned on our mill house and this was original used to herald in the workers on the estate.
- The visitor experience includes 5 tasting rooms/ a cinema/ shop and onsite distillery and maturation.

THE LANDS OF FERCULLEN

THE WICKLOW MOUNTAINS

Fercullen is the anglicised version of “Fera Cualann”, the ancient Gaelic name for Powerscourt Estate and surrounding lands. Literally translated it stands for “Men of the Wicklow Mountains” and historical references date its usage back as far as 808 AD.

Fercullen embodies the unique story of these inspiring lands. It represents the spirit of courage, resilience, patience and perseverance that was shown by the ancient Irish Clans who lived and survived here throughout the centuries.

Pre Norman records suggest the territory of Fercullen to have stretched from Ui Briuin Cualann (Bray) to the east, to Ui Ceallaigh Cualann (Tallaght) to the west. Being located in the center of the territory, Powerscourt Estate occupied a strategic position throughout the years.
